- Shaft surface is coated with cadmium for its acid passivity in order to avoid peel-off and rusting.
- Automatic copying, turning lathes are used to ensure accuracy of diameters and their inter-relationship for increased bearing life through firm assembly.
- Seating diameter is ground to close tolerances for better seating of seals so as to avoid leakages.
- Impeller is balanced so as to minimize bearing wear and prevent water seal dislocation.
- Hub seating diameter is controlled to close limits for easy fitment and avoid slackness of Key, which may damage key way on shaft, hub or impeller.
- Inter related diameters are maintained to close tolerances for proper location of bearings, impeller, hub, seals, etc.
- Oil seal rubber quality, outer and inner diameters and width are perfectly matched with the respective surface dimensions for proper sealing and longer life.
- Water seal rubber quality and stainless steel spring ensure safety against corrosion and leakage.
